

Travel information

The city of Nijmegen is easily accessible by car or train. There are several airports in the vicinity, so when planning your trip to Nijmegen check which airport is the most convenient for you.

Arriving by plane

Amsterdam Airport Schiphol

The biggest airport in the Netherlands is Schiphol. Trains run to Nijmegen every 15 minutes from the airport train terminal. The journey takes about 1.5 hours. Tickets are sold at the vending machines or at the counters in the hall.

Dusseldorf Weeze Airport

The closest airport to Nijmegen is located in Germany only 40 minutes away from the centre of Nijmegen. Several (budget) airlines operate at Dusseldorf Weeze Airport, offering over 50 destinations. There are buses going from Weeze Airport directly to Nijmegen Central Station (costs appr. 18€), but you need to make a reservation.

Eindhoven Airport

Another airport close to Nijmegen is located in Eindhoven, about 80 minutes away. You can check for flights to Eindhoven Airport, and then plan your trip from this airport to Nijmegen.

And more...

If none of the above-mentioned airports has a convenient flight for you, you could check the Cologne Bonn Airport or Dusseldorf International Airport.

Arriving by car or train

You can plan your route by car or by public transport

It is a 15 minute walk to De Lindenberg from Nijmegen's train station.

OV-chipkaart

The 'OV-chipkaart' is used as a general means of payment on the public transport system. The chip card can be loaded with credit in euros, with which you can travel within the Netherlands. More information can be found on the 'OV-chipkaart' website.

More information on travelling:

Travelling by train: www.ns.nl

Journey planner: www.9292.nl

Route by car: www.routeplanner.nl